FLASHED GUNS TO FRIGHTEN CROTTYS

Revenue Agents Exceeded Jurisdiction In Search Without Warrant So Commissioner Collins Dismisses Complaint.

At a hearing before United States Commissioner Collins Friday afternoon at Newburgh, William F. Crotty and Mary Crotty were discharged by the commissioner and exonerated from the charge of having whiskey in their possession at their boarding house and hotel at Veteran, this county.

The evidence against them was by four revenue agents, who claimed they entered the Crotty place and after stalling and "looking wise" they divulged to the Crottys who they were and what their business was, and then made the search of the place. Upon cross examination the fact was brought out that they had no search warrant, or warrant for the arrest of either of the Crottys and that they flashed guns for the purpose of frightening the Crottys.

The agents also claimed that the quart of hootch, which they called whiskey, that they found in a coat pocket in a room of the barroom belonged to Crotty. At the hearing it developed that they took the coat and the botle with them and in the defendant's motion to dismiss, counsel incorporated that they exceded their jurisdiction, that they had no right to go through the premises of the Crottys and they had no right taking clothing from the place that they found the same hanging.

After the motions were made, Judge Collins discharged the defendants and dismissed the proceedings William D. Brinnier, Jr., appeared for the Crottys.

FINANCING WILBUR HALL IMPROVEMENT

The bazaar and dance at Holy Name Hall at Wilbur Friday evening was a splendid social success.

The ten dollar gold piece was awarded to Miss Helen Delaney of Canada, a grand niece of Michael McCardle of Wilbur avenue. The chocolate set to Miss Margaret Taafe of Eddyville and New York city; the fountain pen to J. Johnston, Officer Roedell's friend, and the silk umbrella to Miss Donovan of Brooklyn.

Plans are already under way for an autumn festival dance about Thanksgiving time for which donations are to be sent to the ladies or to the rectory of Holy Name on Fitch street. These dances not only bring the folks of Wilbur and Eddyville together under the most pleasant social relation but help to raise funds sufficient to meet the extensive plans contemplated in completely renovating Holy Name Hall so that it may become in every sense of the word a community center for Wilbur.

The plans include the removal of the heating apparatus to a separate building, the placing of a new maple wood floor, painting and decorating the entire interior of the hall and the placing of new folding opera seats. Such a splendid hall at Wilbur will then be able to meet the increased activities of the Parent-Teacher Association of old school No. 1 and all other community interests of Wilbur.

NO SCHOOLS FOR MANY THOUSANDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 10.—Because of the lack of school buildings, 90,000 children here will do part time work when schools reopen Monday. The shortage of facilities has resulted in makeshifts as portable, flimsy structures, overcrowding of class rooms and part time work. Similar conditions are reported in other cities:

Philadelphia—Despite three new school buildings, 30,000 pupils here will be on half time this year because of lack of facilities.

Buffalo—Five thousand children without accommodations and some schools on half time.

Little Rock Arkansas—Seventeen portable schools eliminated congestion.

"POLIO" CASE IS IMPROVING

And No New Cases Are Reported In Kingston—Health Authorities Are Using Every Precaution To Prevent Spread Of Disease.

Margaret, the eight months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Sottile of No. 185 North street, is reported as slowly improving at the family home. This was the first case of infantile paralysis to be reported in Kingston this year, and Dr. Frank A. Johnston, the local health officer, is using every precaution to prevent the disease spreading.

The Sottile house is still under quarantine with three special officers on guard working in eight hour shifts. The guards are William Brown, James Clare and George Purdy.

Dr. Johnston when seen this morning stated that he had called at the Sottile house on Friday afternoon and that the child was improving and that no new cases had broken out among the family.

With every precaution being taken it is not expected that the disease will spread here.

EFFICIENT MAIL SERVICE.

Cooperation of Large Users of Postal Facilities Helps.

Among the suggestions to postmasters received at the Kingston post office from Postmaster General Will Hays are the following:

"Care in the preparation of mail on the part of the business public results in great economy to the post office and in improved service to the mailer. One postmaster reports that in a short campaign among business houses of his city of nearly 400,000 population, with the assistance of the civic and commerce associations, the press and carrier collectors, he succeeded in getting 52 per cent of the mail coming into his office faced, tied in bundles, with short and long letters separated. The result was a saving of 13 clerks' time and the connecting with early evening trains of important mail which otherwise would have missed. He expects to raise this percentage to 65 per cent by persistent effort.

"Other postmasters are doubtless meeting with equally good results in their localities. I should like to hear of new methods employed which have worked out successfully. In most business institutions mail is carefully faced and stacked when ready for posting. To keep it in this orderly condition is desirable and profitable both to the mailer and the post office. It hastens dispatch, relieves congestion, and cuts down auxiliary and overtime. It is suggested that postmasters put forth an extra effort to secure the cooperation of the public along this line right now when the heavy fall mailing is about to start. In this connection it might be well to again impress upon mailers the advantage to them and to the post office of stating mail and working into directs when volume warrants."

Postmaster DeWitt respectfully requests the patrons of the Kingston post office mailing large numbers of letters to face and stack mail ready for the cancelling machine and hand them in at the windows. This is the practice of most of the large houses here but if all would comply with the postmaster general's suggestions it would advance the dispatch of mail.

500 DEAD AND $10,000,000 PROPERTY DAMAGE DONE IN GREAT FLOOD AT SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

Two Days' Torrential Rain Culminates In Cloudburst and Business District Is Submerged To Depth of 8 Feet—San Antonio River and Creeks Go Over Banks and Sweep Away Houses and Stock—Military Takes Charge.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 10.—At 8:50 o'clock this morning, Commander of Police Phil Wright estimated the loss of life in the flood that inundated large sections of San Antonio early today at 500, and has asked Colonel Thomas H. Slavin, chief of the Eighth Corps, to proclaim martial law in this city. His request will be grantd. Property loss is estimated at $10,000,000.

Scores of families have been driven from their homes and bridges in the business district washed away.

All of the lowlands section of the city are inundated by waters overflowing from the San Antonio river and Alazan creek swollen to torrents by a twenty-four hour downpour of rain.

The flood came as a climax of the heaviest rain fall and cloud burst in this part of the country in memory. A total of 7.39 inches of rain fall has been recorded since the first shower two days ago marked the beginning of the deluge.

In less than one-half hour from 11:15 to 11.40 o'clock last night, a rise of 14 inches was recorded by the gauge in the San Antonio river at St. Mary's street bridge.

Water to a depth of eight feet was flowing down River avenue. Families in the neighborhood of Josephine street and the river sent out a hurry call for aid at 11 o'clock and fleeing from their homes were unable to save furniture or other possessions.

Mrs. Alma Elam and two children of South Laredo street and Marles Grant and wife, also living on South Laredo street, were reported missing this morning.

Last night's flood district extends from Brackenridge Park south along the river through the business district. It also extends along the entire lengths of Alazan and San Pedro creeks. Flood waters were five feet deep in Crockett street this morning and the flood extended as far uptown as Avenue C. West Commerce street was flooded.

Practically every downtown bridge had been rendered unsafe or totally wrecked. The Crockett street bridge is an exception.

Soldiers are patrolling the downtown district to prevent looting.

Along Alazan creek three houses were washed away, but a careful investigation by police leads to the belief that all occupants of homes in the floood district escaped.

In the downtown business district merchants called out extra help in removing valuable merchandise from basements and lower floors of the submerged buildings.

One body that of a Mexican woman, has been taken from the I. and G. N. bridge, the first known victim of the flood.

Police cars at daylight went out Avenue C where pavements were completely torn up for many blocks, plate glass windows were broken, articles of furniture, automobiles and automobile accessories and every other imaginable thing were scattered pell mell along the thoroughfare.

Street cars were standing where they had been abandoned by their crews.

No official estimate of the dead can be made for several days, according to Mayor O. B. Black, because of the flooded condition in the lower sections of the town.

On the property, which embraces eighty acres near Dwaarskill, is a twenty-three-room house. This will be remodeled and furnished in the early spring. The house, although heretofore used only as a summer boarding place, was built for all-year occupancy, and Dr. Edrop plans to fill it with convalescents in the winter. He has appealed for a one-ton motor truck for transportation service between Newburgh and Dwaarskill, and also for a farm tractor.

In the fall he will launch a campaign to raise a sufficient endowment fund to carry on the work. The land is very fertile, and by employing a resident farmer the pastor hopes to make the camp nearly self-supporting.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SOLAN GOOSE.

"I am a very large bird," said the Solan Goose to the Fairy who had gone a-calling on some of Mother Nature's children who lived along a rocky sea coast.

"I can see that," said the Fairy. "But I'd like to know all about you that I can. I heard of someone who wanted to hear about a Solan Goose, and so I am going to try to send that person word of what you've told me.

"You will tell me all you can, won't you?" the Fairy asked most politely and in her sweet little way.

"I will do so gladly," said the Solan Goose. "For I was told that a Fairy was coming to see me and that she would wave her wand so that I could understand her language and so that she could understand mine.

"It's a magic wand that you have, isn't it?"

"Yes," said the Fairy. "The Queen of the Fairies lent it to me for this trip, and it will certainly do most wonderful things.

"But do go on with your story, won't you?"

"Ah yes," said the Solan Goose, "without a moment's delay. And pleased I am that I have been asked to tell my story. I didn't think anyone cared to know about the Solan Goose.

"In fact, I wasn't sure that anyone ever asked about me, and now I hear from you that someone especially asked to hear about me.

"Yes, and you said that this person was very impatient for word of the Solan Goose?"

The Fairy nodded her pretty head.

"To hear that delights me, simply delights me," said the Solan Goose. "You see how much good your wand is doing? I'm talking my very best talk.

"But to go on with my story for you.

"We have many other family names. The most familiar of all is that of Gannet. Another family name is that of Booby.

"You will think that a strange name and a strange name it is. You may think it is a name that isn't very complimentary. Perhaps some would feel that way, but we rather enjoy our family name of Booby."

"Tell Me All You Can."

"How did you get that name?" the Fairy asked.

"Oh," said the Solan Goose, "it's a fair enough name. You see at times we act foolishly, and especially so on land when people see us—if they do see us.

"But there were some who saw us, and they saw how foolishly we were behaving, especially on land, as I have told you, and so they gave us the name.

"We quite enjoy it. It gives us a chance to have a nice and foolish and silly old time every once in awhile, just so as to live up to that name.

"We are what is known as swimming birds. You will see that we are three feet long and that we have a six-foot stretch of wings. People talk of a six-foot man, and so we talk of a six-foot pair of wings—from one end of one wing to the other end of the other wing.

"We like white feathers and golden yellow on our heads and black touches. We live along the North American and European coasts and build our nests in rocky places.

"We like a community life—that is many of us live in the same neighborhood. We build our nests of grass and seaweed and the Mrs. Solan Geese lay an egg or two in these nests which hatch out into adorable little Solan Geese.

"We eat fish and catch it by pouncing down upon our prey from our high places. We are very strong fliers, and we go out far from land where it is wild. There are rocks that are named after us.

"Great numbers of us gather together for we're friendly with each other, and some people say that we always return to the home nest, no matter how far we may wander off, and no matter how long we may stay away. And sometimes it is the way we do, too.

"But Fairy, my Solan Goose tummy is empty for want of fish. You'll excuse me if I must leave you."

So the Fairy thanked the Solan Goose for telling her his story.

Trying to Justify Mother.

"Son, why do you knock that tennis ball about with your head?"

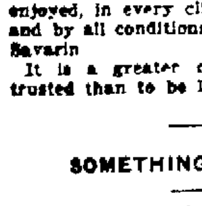
The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union)

The pleasures of the table may be enjoyed, in every climate at all ages, and by all conditions of men.—Brillat-Savarin

It is a greater compliment to be trusted than to be loved.

SOMETHING TO EAT.



A jar of cheese for the Sunday night lunch or supper may be prepared from leftover bits of of good rich American cheese. Grate the cheese or, if soft, cut into bits. Heat one cupful of cream to two cupfuls of grated cheese and when the cream is hot stir in the cheese; stir until all is dissolved, then pour into the jar and allow it to cool. Paprika, red pepper or other seasonings may be added to suit the taste

Breakfast Muffins.—Take one well-beaten egg, add one cupful of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, the same of salt, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, or less if you dislike them at all sweet, one cupful of graham flour. Beat well, add three tablespoonfuls of melted fat and pour into deep gem pans, hot and well buttered, bake. This recipe makes six fluffy, delicious muffins.

Onions With Nuts.—This is a dish sufficiently filling to serve as a main dish during the warm weather. Cook the desired amount of onions as usual, drain and cut with a knife and fork, add well buttered crumbs, salt and pepper a cupful more or less of rich milk, depending upon the amount of onions used. Sprinkle the top of the dish with buttered crumbs after adding chopped English walnuts—a half cupful for a small family, more if large. Bake until the buttered crumbs are brown.

Pecan Pralines.—Take one pound of brown sugar, two cupfuls of whole pecan meats, one-third of a cupful of butter and one-fourth of a cupful of water. Stir the sugar, water and butter together until dissolved and melted. Add the pecans after the mixture has been boiled a few minutes. Drop a bit of the sirup into water, and when a hard ball is formed, pour out on a well-buttered marble slab. Drop the mixture like pancakes, spreading them out one-third of an inch thick. Work quickly or they will be too hard to handle.

Fishing Nets Help Make Roads.

Fishermen on the north or Block Island sound shore of Montauk point have found a novel use for old and discarded nets. They make roads of them. They lay them down over the marshes in the rear of the beaches, where their huts and boats are placed and the sand blows into the meshes and is soon compacted into a firm roadway, solid enough for wagons or even light automobiles. The principle is the same as that used by lumbermen in making corduroy roads over swamps.—New York Evening Post.

Carpet Brings Courtesy.

"If there's a carpet on the floor of the elevator the men take their time, don't hurry and jam, and remove their hats when ladies get on," said the girl operator in the Fifth avenue department store. "Funny what a carpet'll do. I used to work in an office building, a small one, where there wasn't any rush. But there wasn't no carpet. And the pushin' and shovin'! But here with all the crowd everybody's polite. Just because of the fact that the floor is covered."—New York Times.

Stories of Great Scouts

THE LONG SHOT MADE BY BILLY DIXON

"The old Sharps rifle ended the North American buffalo," once wrote Theodore Roosevelt, the chronicler of the winning of the West, and he might have added that this famous gun helped write "Finis" to the story of the Indian with a few periods of lead.

One of the most remarkable shots ever made with this rifle took place at the Adobe Walls fight in the Texas Panhandle in 1874, when a war party of Kiowas, Comanches and Cheyennes tried to wipe out a little group of buffalo hunters who had their headquarters there. The shot was fired by Billy Dixon, known to the Indians as "Hasta—Long Hair."

After three charges against the stockade had failed to overwhelm the buffalo hunters, the Indians settled down to starve them out. During the siege "Bat" Masterson, one of the hunters, noticed a group of Indians gathered on a hill nearly three-quarters of a mile away. They could be plainly seen, and were evidently talking over some new plan for overcoming the white men when Masterson called Dixon's attention to the group.

"Billy, it wouldn't be a bad idea to break up that little pow-wow over there, would it?" he said.

"Don't know whether the old Sharps is good for it or not, but I'll try it," replied Dixon. He knew the range—approximately 1,200 yards. Fixing the sights of his gun to this range, the scout aimed carefully and fired. The white men saw the conference of the warriors break up hastily and the savages retreat to a safer place

Dixon served as a scout for General Miles in the campaign against the southern tribes that year, and he was one of the six dispatch bearers who made a heroic stand in an old buffalo wallow against a war party of 125 Comanches and Kiowas. In this fight Amos Chapman, a fellow scout, lost his leg. Although Dixon's shirt front was riddled with bullets, he received only one slight wound. That night he volunteered to go for help and after a perilous trip he brought back a troop of cavalry and rescued his comrades.

For nine years Dixon was a government scout at Fort Elliott, Tex. Then he homesteaded a ranch in the Panhandle, building his log house on the ruins of the old Adobe Walls where he had made his famous shot with the old Sharps. Later he moved to Cimarron county, Oklahoma, and died near the little town of Gresham in 1914.

Pig Clubs Flourish.

Wall Street has many club and fraternity men, but probably no members of the Pig club. Indeed, such a club could not flourish in lower New York. Yet, it is one of the greatest clubs in the country. The promoters are usually country banks. Membership is obtained by borrowing money from the bank to buy a pig of distinguished ancestry. Little freckle-faced farm boys make up the membership. The notes are always paid in full and the embryo farmer becomes a producer of thoroughbred live stock. One little member in Oklahoma who started with a pig and a debt at the bank recently walked out of the fairground with a big cash prize in his pocket, and now he owns a herd of purebred Poland China's and a bank account. The Middle West is swarming with such members and still new clubs are forming. Wall Street is interested because in one year the packers alone paid the farmers $1,738,000,000 for hogs, and these little club members are adding immensely to the value of the future production.—Wall Street Journal.

Friends of Mrs. Bertha Samuels Sinclair are wondering whether she will win the forgiveness of her father, or whether Colonel Joseph Samuels will keep his threat to disinherit her. The millionaire made this threat when the bride indicated her intention of being married to James Sinclair, former Brown University athlete. The couple eloped a few days ago, being married at Mystic, Conn. It was late in the night when they reached Mystic. It was raining, and the engine in their motor had stalled. The circumstances were not at all romantic, though the heiress found a touch of romance in the fact that if her father held to his word she would have to be content with Sinclair's salary in lieu of her large allowance.

Johnny Wilson, of Boston, and Bryan Downey, of Columbus, Ohio, who both claim the middleweight championship, put up a rather disappointing bout on Labor Day at Jersey City. The fight went twelve rounds to no decision. The photo shows Wilson driving a right to Downey's face during a mix-up in the third round.

Foreign diplomats not accredited to the United States are subject to American war taxes, just as ordinary citizens, when they embark from any port in the United States. This was exemplified in the case of Dr. E. L. Chermont, Brazilian Minister to Japan, who sailed for his post recently from Seattle. Dr. Chermont objected to payment of war tax on the steamship fares of himself and his wife. Federal authorities issued the statement that exceptions do not apply to foreign diplomats passing through the country. The photo shows Dr. E. L. Chermont.

FAVORED FATHER OF 16.

President Roosevelt's phillipics against "race suicide" and the warm congratulations he extended to certain heads of large families, though excellent in aim and possibly useful in result, entailed some rather unpleasant consequences. The authors of surprisingly numerous progenies, with their entire collections grouped about them, stood in his path as he traveled about. He was called upon to admire twins and even triplets. He faced such spectacles with characteristic good humor and aplomb, but he was doubtless relieved when the excitement died down and he no longer had to pick his way through crowding infants whenever he alighted from a train. President Harding will encounter fewer embarrassments of this sort because he travels about less, but he may as well resign himself to a heavy downpour of letters from the heads of large families intimating that there are others worthy of presidential favor, now that he has graciously intervened to secure higher pay for Domenico Zaccahea, the father of 16.

A letter is pretty sure to come from Reuben C. Bland of Robersonville, N. C., the authentic father of 34, pointing out that in comparison with himself, the most extensive of the world's known parents, Mr. Zaccahea is only moderately distinguished and deserving. If a president is to provide a better job for the father of 16, why should not Congress make an appropriation for the father of 34? Even less distinguished fathers of mere tens, eights or sixes are likely to consider themselves worthy objects of the special consideration of a paternal government. In the kindness of his heart the president has harvested a crop of perplexities and invited troubled consideration of a problem for which there appears to be no solution. In the future as in the past the heads of large families are likely to be obliged to stand on their own feet and face their responsibilities as best they can.

AMENDMENT NO. 1.

The Civil Service Reform Association is strongly opposed to Constitutional Amendment No. 1 which will be voted on at the November election, and in an address at the convention of the Civil Service Association at Elmira several days ago, H. W. Marsh, secretary of the former organization, attacked it on the ground that it would "tear out the foundation-stone of our governmental structure, equal opportunity for all." Mr. Marsh is a veteran of the World War, who served in France with the A. E. F.

The amendment provides that honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines who shall have served as such in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States in time of war, who are citizens and residents of this state, shall be entitled to preference in appointment and promotion, without regard to their standing on any list from which such appointment or promotion may be made; "provided they were residents of this state at the time they entered said army, navy or marine corps; and provided also that soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the civil war shall have preference over all others on the same list."

The words quoted, together with the provision for marines and the term "time of war" instead of "civil war" constitute the amendment. The Constitution at present gives preference to soldiers and sailors of the civil war but not to marines.

One of the objections made by Mr. Marsh to the amendment is that no provision is made for extending preference to any woman who devoted herself to war work either at home or in camp, who could not get a public place in competition with a veteran no matter how much she might need the work.

But the principal objection raised by Mr. Marsh is that a veteran who makes the bare passing mark in an examination must be appointed before any non-veteran may be appointed. The amendment, he argues, would destroy the basic principle of the merit system, that public office is a public trust, "awarded only according to proved capacity." There is force in his contention that "inexperienced and unfit men, who gain admission by reason of the preference, will rise rapidly to the higher offices in both lines of service" (referring to policemen and firemen) "because of the advantage this preference would give them."

Whether there would be a rush of veterans who by lack of training and experience are unfitted to perform the work of the offices they might seek to fill is a matter which many voters will consider carefully. They have seen in the public service both veterans and non-veterans who were especially qualified for their positions, and likewise those who were entirely incompetent. They have seen competent men fail in tests and examinations which were passed by men who proved to be incompetent.

What is true of New York State is true of every other commonwealth and every other country where men are engaged for the public service through examinations or tests of some kind. The inference from Mr. Marsh's attack on the proposed amendment is that only incompetent ex-service men will apply for civil service jobs. Such an inference is unjust. There is but one question to determine: whether the present system of preference shall be extended to veterans of the World War.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Why do insects like butterflies have so many stages?

"Whys" in nature are hard to explain. The larva hatched from the egg is the first active stage. Its business is to eat, grow, and presumably store nourishment. To continue active feeding, and at the same time make radical changes for the final form, appears impossible, a quiet stage in a pupa case being needed. The theory anyway is that the creature uses up its stored fat and manufactures a new body from the old, while safely hidden in a chrysalid.

2. Is the cuttle-fish they give canary birds really fish?

Part of a fish, or at least of a mollusc, Sepia officinalis. The cuttle-bone is an internal shell, carried inside the body, and is calcareous—that is, has lime in its composition.

3. How many poison snakes are there in the United States?

Three general classes are listed—1, Opistoglyph snakes, mildly poisonous and seldom aggressive against man, in south and southwest; 2, Elapinae, or Coral snakes, deadly poisonous, with two representatives in the States; 3, Crotalinae, covering, in the U. S., rattle snakes (Texas, Red, Prairie, Pacific, Dog-faced, Price's Tiger, Horned, Green, White, Banded or Timber and Diamondback), and moccasins, including Copperheads and the Water or Cottonmouth.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

Mr. Wilson returned from Boston all agog with a new idea of using Jim, after the practice of a Boston drug company who picked up a lot of extra business by sending a man on the road with a suit case full of odds and ends—Sulpho napthol, asperin, face powder. "Lots of folks need these things but can't get uptown to get them," he remarked.

"I'll have some miles of walking," said Jim.

"You might take my runabout. Know how to run a car?"

Since Jim did, it was speedily arranged that he leave the next morning. During the first day's canvassing, he had good luck. Mosquito dope and face powder went like hot cakes, and he was soon sold out, but as long as he had anything at all to sell he kept going.

Returning to town he passed a country road, and curious to know how many houses there were for a mile or two up, he turned the machine and headed that way. The road, however, was deceptive. About a mile beyond it changed from hard gravel to soft sand. Instantly the wheels were buried up to the hub and the driving wheels spun around like pin wheels Night was falling, and there was not a building in sight.

"I deserve it," thought Jim. "I should have kept on the beaten track. Heard enough about the Cape roads anyway to know better."

Finding some pieces of canvas in a box under the seat, Jim tucked them under the rear wheels and started the motor. Still they spun around, scattering the shredded canvas to the four winds. "Got to get some planks and jack up the wheels," Jim decided, "but where can I find such things in this lonely place?"

He started on a trip of investigation, and only a short distance away espied a structure, dark against the crimsoning sky. He went nearer and found an old, dilapidated house. The blinds were closed, there was no sign of life. Jim wandered around, looking for loose boards, but the grounds had been cleaned up. Then he tried the doors. They were locked. He pulled at one of the shutters which crumbled as he tugged. The window was dirty, and he could not see within, but after pulling at it, it opened

Then for the first time he heard sounds of sobbing. He climbed over the sill, and in the next room saw an aged Italian seated upon the floor holding in his arms a tawdrily dressed monkey. The man showed no surprise at Jim's appearance, but continued to rock back and forth sobbing, "My beautiful baby She is sick—so sick. What am I to do if my baby she die?"

In spite of his ridiculous position, Jim felt sorry for the man. He knew nothing about monkeys, well or sick, but he remembered his drug supply outside.

"What's good for sick monkeys, Castor Oil?

"Oh yah, oil, from sunny Italy, but I have got no oil."

"I have. Wait a bit." He rushed back to his runabout, found a large bottle of sweet oil, and helped to administer the dose. Then, with the monkey comfortable tucked into a bed made of excelsior, and the man's coat, the two men worked on the automobile, jacking it up, and finding boards from the shed to place underneath the wheels.

Once more Jim was free to move and as he waved a goodbye, the Italian cried, "If my monkey is better, I go on my way tomorrow. But I never forget you, and some day I do you good, Mr. Jimmie Lawrence."

ULSTER GETS MORE AUTO MONEY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 10.—Approximately three million dollars is being distributed this week by Secretary of State John J. Lyons, in accordance with the law governing the monthly division of motor vehicle receipts between state and county. This is the largest sum ever distributed by Mr. Lyons for this purpose and serves to wind up the supervision of the motor vehicle bureau in so far as the secretary of state's office is concerned, the bureau having been transferred to the tax commission.

Ulster county will receive a check for $2,703.42 this week, the amount representing $2,632.42 from the registration of automobiles and $71 from the registration of motorcycles. The money is available for highway work in the county.

All told, the county has received this year from Mr. Lyons the sum of $22,161.38. The first six months this year have been record-breaking ones in a motor vehicle sense, the secretary of state's office having taken in no less than $9,289,363.32 up to July 1, from the registration of motor vehicles and the licensing of chauffeurs and operators. This six month period is far ahead of any twelve months in the history of the office.

The neighboring county of Orange will receive a check from Secretary Lyons this week of $13,381.36, while Sullivan county will get a check amounting to $7,077.91.

Didn't care so much to gad as

Then up spoke this Otis Titus
"Let us build a lattice, Lotus,
Lotus, let us have a lattice
Where no spying eye could spot us.
Lotus answered: "Let us! Let us."

"When the moon had lit us, Lotus
In the lattice we could seat us
And the world would never notice
For the lattice would delete us.

"Clad with leaves as light as lettuce
We would have this lattice. Lotus.
Where the bee would come to loot us.
And the glow worm light us gratis,

But no leering brute could hoot us,
And no Brutus could get at us,
Lotus, let us have a lattice"
"Otis, let us," Answered Lotus.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTIONS TWENTY-SIX AND TWENTY-SEVEN OF ARTICLE THREE OF THE CONSTITUTION TO ENABLE THE LEGISLATURE TO PROVIDE FORMS OF GOVERNMENT FOR THE COUNTIES OF WESTCHESTER AND NASSAU.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That sections twenty six and twenty seven of article three of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 26 There shall be in each county, except in a county wholly included in a city, a board of supervisors, to be composed of such members and elected in such manner and for such period as is or may be provided by law. The legislature may provide by law for forms of government for the counties of Westchester and Nassau, or either, subject to adoption and approval by the electors of any such county at a general election in an odd-numbered year. Any such form of government may include the transfer to the county or to county officers of any functions now exercised by towns or town officers. The law providing for such form of government shall also prescribe the manner in which the county affected may subsequently abandon it, and revert to its former form of government. The adoption of such form of government by the county shall not preclude the legislature from amending or modifying such plan. If under such form of government the board of supervisors be abolished the powers and duties of the board of supervisors, as prescribed by the constitution, or by statute if not provided for by such form of government, shall devolve upon the governing elective body in such county. In a city which includes an entire county, or two or more entire counties, the powers and duties of a board of supervisors may be devolved upon the municipal assembly, common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of the city.

§ 27 The legislature shall, by general laws, confer upon the boards of supervisors, or other governing elective bodies, of the several counties of the state such further powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient[, and]]. In counties which now have, or hereafter have, county auditors or other fiscal officers authorized to audit bills, accounts, charges, claims or demands against the county, the legislature may confer such powers upon [said] such auditors, or fiscal officers as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient.

OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC.

Not only have the results of our work been satisfactory to thousands in this vicinity, but many sufferers from distant places are continually coming to our offices in Kingston to regain and rebuild their health.

We take pride in the knowledge that we are accomplishing better and surer results than many in our profession.

We have succeeded in evolving a system of painless adjustments which is acknowledged far superior to any method heretofore in use.

This system, combined with the knowledge gained by our very extensive practice, makes it unnecessary that we supplement it with mechanical or electrical devices of unproven merit.

Our invariable rule is to never accept a case that we are not confident we can benefit. A dissatisfied patient can easily cause us more injury than a dozen satisfied boosters can overcome.

Therefore, if your health is below normal in any way, you should call on us and talk it over, with the assurance that there will be no cost or obligation on your part. If you cannot call in person, write or phone, and we shall be glad to mail you information as to how you may have better health by ending the cause of your present ailment. When ones' head is perfectly bald, except for a nice little fringe around the back and ears, one may qualify for the Order of Double Faces. An ingenious Dutchman is the founder of the order. He asked a bald friend to incline his head on a table so that the bald section faced front. With a piece of charcoal he sketched a nose, mouth, eyes and eyebrows, with the result shown above. Who says some men are not two-faced?

Of the Family of Smiths.

The man who spells his name with a "y" and a final "e" is not the bombastic Smith that many suppose; the name was originally spelled in this manner. Gold and silver smiths, of course, were men who worked in these metals; brownsmith was a man who worked in bronze; a greensmith worked in lead. The word name Nasmith is thought to be derived from nailsmith.

Fails to Swim Channel.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dover, England, Sept. 10.—Henry Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass., famous American long distance swimmer, failed today in an attempt to swim the English channel.

The yearning of this attractive twenty-year-old Chicago girl for an education has caused her to offer herself "for sale" in marriage for $3,000. The offer comes as a climax to a futile struggle to raise money in other ways. She tried clerking, bookkeeping, salesmanship and nursing. After careful calculations of the expenses of a course through college, Miss Peterson "priced" herself at $3,000. She prefers a tall husband and states she will marry at once if necessary, but would rather wait until she had graduated from college.

Lost, $170.

A reward is offered for the return to 19 Henry street of $170 in bills which was lost between Henry and St. James streets.

DEEGAN BACK FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

When the Colonials take the field against Manager Wetmore's Regulars at Riverview Park, Poughkeepsie, tomorrow the Kingston team will have its strongest line-up in the game. "Bud' Culloton, ace of the pitching staff, who turned the Regulars back when they played here two weeks ago, will again be in the box, and Matty Deegan will be in his accustomed place at short. Deegan, who has received a try-out by the New York Giants, has been allowed to return to the Colonials for the present, but has been notified by Manager McGraw to report at the Polo Grounds when the Giants return from their western trip the latter part of this month.

Hundreds of Kingston fans will accompany the Colonials in their trip to Poughkeepsie tomorrow. It will be the first game the Colonials have played on a strange diamond in some time, but Captain Schirick and his men are confident they can defeat the Regulars on their home grounds. Wetmore's men will fight hard to wipe out the defeat of two weeks ago, and will probably use Beecher in another attempt to turn back the Kingston bunch.

The Savior in Profane History.

Among the historical references to Jesus Christ which are undisputed is that made by Tacitus, the Roman historian, who on speaking of the Christians said, "The originator of that name had been executed in the reign of Tiberius by order of the administrator, Pontius Pilate." This may be found in the Annals of Terevat. Reference to Christ is also made in the "Antiquities of Josephus," a Jewish historian, who was contemporary with Christ, but this passage is declared by some to be a forgery.

BUCHHOLTZ UNPLEDGED.

Favors Tenth Ward Referendum on Sunday Baseball.

To the Enrolled Republican Voters of the 10th Ward:

In making a canvass of the Tenth ward in support of my candidacy for the Republican nomination for alderman, it has been brought to my attention that a report has been circulated to the effect that if I am nominated and elected, I am pledged to support in the common council any resolution authorizing Sunday baseball.

Such statements, if made, are untrue and in fairness to myself, I make the following statement of my position relative to the matter of Sunday baseball.

I have made no pledges or promises to anyone, either in favor of or against Sunday baseball. Until the matter had come to my attention I had not seriously considered the matter, but if I am nominated and elected, it is my idea that the people of the ward which I represent should decide that question by a referendum by which I would be willing to be guided.

I have respects for the ideas and beliefs of every man and woman who is sincere therein; it is, of course, impossible to reconcile beliefs which are diametrically opposed, and in such a case I believe that the will of the majority should prevail and guide a representative in voting on such a matter.
